Intelligent suggestions in QuickType

QuickType is also getting a boost in iOS 10. For example, if someone texts you asking where you are, QuickType will suggest to drop a pin of your current location. When someone asks for a friend's phone number or email, QuickType will surface the correct contact info stored in your Contacts.

And if someone asks if you're available at a certain time, QuickType will check your Calendar and let you know your availability or tap into "intelligent scheduling" to create a new event based on contextual information from the entire message thread.

Hints/Tips

Multilingual keyboard support

In addition to surfacing intelligent responses, QuickType now has multilingual support, which means that it will make its suggestions in whatever language you're typing, even if you didn't bother to switch to that language's official keyboard.

To enable multilingual support, you will first need to add the different language keyboard, however in Settings -> General -> Keyboard.
